Large Track Delegation To Visit Tech Saturday For Annual ICC Meet

In a track meet that will bring almost 200 athletes to the campus, Bradley plays host to Illinois college conference schools for the first time in a decade Saturday, when the annual ICC track conference will be held here.

Tickets for the meet will be priced at 25 cents for the morning preliminaries at 10 o'clock, and 75 cents for the finals at 2 o'clock. Students may take advantage of a special offer of both tickets for 55 cents if purchased before Saturday. Passbooks will not be good.

Bruninga Is Queen

Roger Sutton, ticket chairman, will be in the ticket office every day during the noon hour and from 4 to 5:30 every afternoon.

Ruling over the activities at the meet will be Paula Bruninga, Sigma Chi Gamma, who will act as Queen. Miss Bruninga was elected to this honor by a student-wide vote conducted in a special assembly last Monday.

To Be Attendants

Miss Bruninga was followed in the election by Jean Jacob, Lambda Phi; Shirley Moran, Delta Kappa; Elaine Ryan, Independent; and Clara Miller, Independent. These girls will act as attendants to Miss Bruninga during the ceremonies.

The conference meet was held last at Bradley in 1931. Schools competing in the meet are North Central, Knox, Wesleyan, Millikin, Wheaton, Augustana, Illinois College and Monmouth.

Golf, Tennis Featured

Not only will track events figure in the meet but conference golfers and tennis men will meet here on the same day to battle out the conference championships. The golfers will play at Mt. Hawley country club and the tennis matches will be played on the Tech courts.

Further details of the meet may be found in the sports pages.

Genial Joe Blair Is Found To Be Successful Pastor, 'Weight Lifter'

by Ralph Wright

If you know Joe Blair, you probably know him as Joe, a friendly, good-looking fellow with a nice smile. But to several hundred of his congregation, he is the Rev. Joseph A. Blair, pastor of the Hope Mission.

Mr. Blair, or Joe, if you insist, is a junior at Bradley and a graduate of Moody Bible Institute of Chicago, where he took a three years' pastor's training course. While at Moody, Joe conducted a radio program over WMBI, representing the men's class.

Builds Himself Up

His biggest interest outside of his church work is in athletics. He played basketball in high school and was center on the football team for three years. While at Bradley, he has taken up swimming, tennis, and wrestling. His greatest achievements, however, were in "weight lifting," which he first started as a sort of hobby and later used to build himself up.

It was back in 1933 that he decided that his 150 pounds were not enough for a six-footer to weigh. He devised a set of exercises to be performed in regular workouts in an attempt to raise his weight.

Meets Health Measurements

He took three forty-minute workouts each week. The exercises included the front hand crawl, overhead press, lying press, stiff legged dead lift, deep knee bend, abdominal exercises, wrestler's bridge, and the back hand crawl.

Joe found a set of physical culture standards for waist, chest, and wrist measurements, and determined to come up to the standard. He made a chart, and each month made a record of his own

And So To Work

This issue of the TECH marks the end of one regime and the beginning of a new one, for it is with this issue each year that the new editors for the TECH take control. It is customary for them, therefore, at this time, to make their pledges to the readers.

However, we are making no startling promises—only declaring that we will continue with the policy carried out this year of impartial publication of all news, and we will strive to make the TECH a still better news source for student entertainment and information.

We are aware of many improvements we can make and how we can profit by our past mistakes, but we will be only too glad to hear any constructive criticisms which anyone has to offer.

With this in mind we bid goodbye to the year just finished, and look forward not only to winning higher honors in the future but also to accomplishing what is the almost impossible for the best of papers—offering student readers such a forceful and interesting paper that they leave no line unread. —I. M.

Farewell

Saying farewell to the teaching profession this year is Dr. Wales H. Packard, head of Bradley's biology department, who has been a member of Bradley's faculty since the school's first birthday.

Dr. Packard has seen a lot of Bradleyites come and go, has probably read a lot of TECH editorials in his time. He has been an integral part of Bradley life, and has been a source of enlightenment and friendship to all those students who were lucky enough to be enrolled in his classes.

To the Pre-Medics, of course, Dr. Packard has been a considerable source of inspiration. His kindly interest in each individual, his understanding of their needs and desires, his helping them towards their goal: all these things are remembered, and will be remembered, by a host of physicians in all parts of the country.

His integrity, his word and his opinions have always counted high with all medical schools. A recommendation from him has been almost a passport to a medical school.

With these things in mind, it is with regret we see Dr. Packard leave Bradley. Those who take teaching as a career of the highest spiritual and moral importance are few and far between. Dr. Packard has been one of these.

Re-Survey Shows Over Two Per Cent Increase Of Democratic Supporters Among Students

As the Gallup poll frequently does, the TECH poll this week took a re-survey on a question asked in an October issue. Since that time many events have occurred which may have contributed to a change of opinion on the question, favorite political party.

This survey finds the Democratic party has gained headway, with 2.5% more persons favoring it than did on the previous poll. Meanwhile the Republican party lost almost the same percentage in its disciples. Since the number of voters undecided or favoring some other party or none at all remained practically constant (within.2%) it appears that the shift has been from the Republican ranks to those of the Democrats.

	Man	Woman	Total	Total in October poll on same question
Dem.	35 %	30%	32.5%	30%
Repub.	45.3%	49%	47.7%	50%
Neither or Undecided	19.7%	21%	19.8%	20%

Many factors can have contributed to the difference since last October. That there was a change is evident, since on the second question those casting ballots were asked if the party they named in question 1 was the same one they favored in November, for about 13% admitted they had changed party support since that time.

However, this number is considerably larger than the variance from last fall's poll seems to indicate. The explanation for this apparent discrepancy comes when one notices that this change of party appeared on the poll ballots of both Republican and Democrat supporters in almost equal numbers, with a few more students professing to be Democrats admitting such a change of opinion since the fall than did Republicans.

The most interesting part of the survey is that though quite a large number has changed party alliance, the party lines at Bradley remain nearly constant, the shifts tending to nearly balance each other.

IN MEMORIAM

You have died—you are dead,
You were dizzy in your head—
As you crammed when the clock struck four,
All the cane in your brain—
Drove you suddenly insane,
Till you simply didn't function anymore.

How you hate every date—
Growing late, late, late—
All the rules—only fools
Could debate, bate, bate—
Every page ages an age—
Through a squint, squint, squint—
Till you race at a pace—
At a sprint, sprint, sprint—
Then POP!

There's no more to say—
They have carried you away—
And you lie under lilies and such—
"Here he sleeps, who did cram
For a Bradley Tech exam—
Minus brain, all the strain
Was too much."

Biology Lab Has Its Moments . . Even Protozoa Can Have Fun

by J. C. MacMillan

Last night at the open house, the visitors and even the students got a good look at dear old B. P. I. and saw things they never knew the school had. Among the educational tours offered was a library trip from stack to hold. Another interesting event was the trip through the biology laboratory. All the big shots and a few of the little ones from the animal world were there.

Some of the best protozoa and bacillus were seen. A couple of germs were whooping it up in a test tube on a back shelf. (They didn't know I was looking.) There was one amoeba chasing another through an undergrowth of fungus. I don't know whether he caught her or not, they were kicking up a lot of dust and laughing madly.

Over in another test tube were a couple of foraminifera fighting it out over a beautiful specimen of infusoria who was calmly sitting there brushing her hair and taking the whole thing in.

Unaware of the mad drama of life going on about them were a couple of protoplasms. As far as I could see, they were just lying around waiting to give birth to something. They said they didn't particularly care what, but Mendel HAD put on a few restrictions.

A few of the higher animals like guinea-pigs, rabbits, and frogs were knocking about. One guinea-pig had been vaccinated so many times his brothers, of whom there were many, endearingly called him Scarface. One rabbit said he knew it was Spring and all that, but he was tired. A couple of frogs were whipping up a batch of beer. They were putting the hops in it when I left.

On a couple of plates there were some little baby germs being raised — the cutest things you ever saw. I understand their mother worked herself to death in a typhoid epidemic. There they were sitting around under glass, innocent of all the hardships of life, and eating off the fat of the land. They were just growing up in this college atmosphere to be big healthy germs. It sort of does something to you when you realize that even the lowly germ has a culture. WOW!

Rudy Bartz Speaks At TECH Banquet Held At Webb's Inn

Speaking last Saturday at the annual TECH staff banquet at Webb's in Chillicothe was Rudy Bartz, editor of "News and Views" at the Caterpillar Tractor company. Mr. Bartz told of the by-gone days of the "swashbuckling reporter" and the opportunities offered by industrial publications.

Toastmistress of the evening was Dorothy Janssen who introduced the co-editors, Ida Miller and Dick Bodtke, who spoke a few words of appreciation for the cooperation they had received from this year's staff. Lee Baker, re-appointed business manager, acknowledged his introduction by speaking a few brief business-like words of thanks to his assistants.

Dean A. F. Siepert, Dean L. G. Tillotson and Dr. H. J. Bell, faculty members of the Board of Control, each spoke briefly on the details of newspaper work usually overlooked by readers

Other highlights were the presentation of the Henry M. Pindell cup to Phil O'Connell for his outstanding work on the TECH staff, the presentation of the Alpha Delta (National Journalistic fraternity) pins to new members, the "unveiling" of J. C. McMillan's Algernon, and the introduction of next year's POLYSCOPE editor, Phyllis Springer.

The eight students to be honored are George Orendorff, Betty Junker, Glen Loeffel, Peggy Lee Richardson, Bob Welk, Clara Walsh, Richard Davison and Gene Smith.

Betty Junker, who has won several awards in high school, brought to Bradley, this year, the silver loving cup, which signifies her supremacy in the women's oratorical contest. The remainder of the speakers have either won awards or were outstanding in speech or dramatic work. They will be "feted" at a banquet at Bishop's Cafeteria, May 26.

James Henry Meriwether Henderson, graduate student at the University of Wisconsin, received a letter mailed in Washington, D. C., and bearing only his name and "U. S. A." as an address.

'Night Must Fall' Meets Approval Of Audiences

by Dick Gable

A mysterious hat box, a wheel chair, and a drooping cigarette were essential properties in Dr. Krefting and Company's noteworthy attempt to thrill and chill the audience last week without all the usual entangling melodramatics.

Moving rather casually through the first act of Emlyn William's Night Must Fall most of the characters soon realized the problem they had to face until, by moving more rapidly and alertly, they had control of the audience for a few tense moments in the last two acts.

The least that could be said about the play itself is that it was different. There were no trap doors, sliding panels, hairy arms, or grotesque faces at the window; not even one long shriek. Only a head without a body appears in disguise on the stage. The individuals on the stage by their action and lack of action developed the horror within themselves to project it into the audience.

J. Brunnenmeyer, of the drooping cigarette, had the difficult task of acting like the man who is always acting. It is strange, then, that he was much less real when he was merely acting like the man. The bespectacled Shirley Smith, cool and efficient, was particularly outstanding, drawing the approval of all the audience when she set the theme for the play near the end of the first act. Background music throughout the play, and especially at this time, was gripping; it occasionally formed an effective shield for the actors. Little could be found to criticize in the interpretation conceived by Bernita Ward. Harold Ronk was as boring as he was supposed to be and funny at times.

Dr. Clarence W. Schroeder is to be the commencement speaker at the exercises of the Hartsburg Community high school May 29.

Vox Pop - - -

(The People Speak)

Fellow Students:

Tuesday night Bradley was honored once again by national recognition. The support of this songfest was surprisingly good. The singing was harmonic, melodic, and thoroughly pleasant, BUT, as usual someone had to spoil it.

In 1938 no one ever heard of him; in 1939 he was elected to a class office because he had a high grade point (and not much else); in 1940 he began to think of himself as a member of the holy trinity, Adkins, Hitler and God.

Tuesday night a small cup was at stake, but our greedy selfish, self-appointed dictator couldn't keep his meddling nose out of this affair and permit things to run smoothly as planned. First, Comrade Adkins tells Dave Owen what he can do and what he can't do.

Herr Adkins felt that the use of an alumnus pianist by the Alpha Pi fraternity was highly unethical. (He should be concerned about ethics at this stage of his shady career.) He didn't feel that this was important until five minutes before the broadcast was to begin, however!

Because of the small number of contestants he utterly failed in this nefarious attempt.

His next move reached a new low in "stooping to conquer." Mr. Howard Kellogg, the chief-justice of the contest, was not even priviledged to hear the Alpha Pi rendition because Adkins was draped over his shoulder muttering incantations into Mr. Kellogg's ear. He mentioned (briefly, of course, but at sufficient length to outlast the song) their national affiliations, their high scholarship, and other quite unrelated items to a singing contest.

Probably due more to the fine arrangement of the song (written by Miss Kay Keyes, a Lambda Phi) the Lambda Chi Alphas have another cup for their mantel and everyone else has a bad taste in his mouth. NOT because of a win or loss of a cup; but because some smart guy thought that things around Bradley weren't going as they should (his way).

The moral of this story is:

"President Hamilton, don't leave your office door open, or when you come in some morning you'll have to find another chair."

Spokesman for those who still believe in fair-play.

Fred Folks.

Dr. J. M. Steadman, Jr., professor of English at Emory university, has met an eight o'clock class every morning for 17 years.

Beta Mus Picnic At Detweiller Park

Hot dogs with "everything" was the major part of the menu for the Beta Mu picnic last Saturday evening at Detweiller park.

Ten members and their guests climbed the hills of the park until Robert Rennie and Al Lautenschlager, chairman, arrived with the food. Dr. and Mrs. Swaim brought the root beer.

When it became too dark to play ball, the group broke up to roller skate, dance, and practice golf for the rest of the evening.

Home Ec Group Sponsors 'Navy Day'

Hats off to Navy Day sponsored by the Bradley Home Economics club. Navy Day was the name given to the annual banquet and style show of the club held at the University club last Thursday evening. At 6:30, mess was served and this was followed by maneuvers conducted by Admiral Jean Holmes and Lorraine Gustafson.

Entertainment was furnished by the Sailor's Hornpipe which included an accordian solo by Betty Moody, two readings by Jane McClugage, and piano music by Jeanne Hines. A salute was given to the new officers and all the senior midshipmen and commanding officers were presented with corsages. Following this, the group then adjourned to another room for the main event of the evening, the style show.

Beginning with the break of dawn, garments were modeled to fit every occasion in the day. There were sports dresses, afternoon dresses, suits, coats, and for the wee small hours both gay and dainty formals. All of the outfits were worn by their makers.

The girls in charge of the style show were Betty Holmes, Gerry Herrmann, Mary Lewis and Maryanna Richardson; the commanders-in-chief were Miss Ida K. Schmidt, Miss Beatrice Benson, Miss Bertha Klinger and Mrs. Harris Blomeyer.

Tech Tracksters Defeat Wesleyan And Millikin

The strong Bradley Tech track team put on a display of power in the field events of last week's triangular track meet and piled up 73 points to win the meet with ease. Finishing second, Illinois Wesleyan showed strength in the dashes and collected 43½ points, while the other entrant, James Millikin university, managed 37½ points.

The Braves amassed 42 points in the field events as compared with 14½ for the Millikin squad and 9½ for the Titans. In the track events, the Braves compiled 31 points to Wesleyan's 34 and Millikin's 23.

Slam Discus And Shot

Featuring the meet were Bradley's grand slams in the discus and shot put. In the discus, Chris Hansen, Clancy Tohn, Hod Lundeen and Don Goff placed in that order, while Paul McCall, Goff, Lundeen and Elroy Littlewood took care of the places in the shot put.

Wimberly, conference dash star from Wesleyan, took first place in the 100 yard dash. His time was an even 10 seconds, and he came back to repeat his first in the 220 yard dash.

The meet served as a final warm-up for the three teams who will be competing in the annual conference meet, along with other outstanding conference teams, to be held this Saturday at Bradley field.

Ramsey Takes Low Hurdles

The Braves could have widened their margin with Ray Ramsey running in the high hurdles but he is still nursing an injured knee sustained in the Viking relays two weeks ago. However, he captured a first in the low hurdle event, a second in the high jump and third in the broad jump.

In the distances, Bob Thacker, Tech veteran, had no trouble taking first in both the mile and two mile runs.

Bradley Nips Wesleyan, 3-2

by Jerry Rapp

Bradley's "defeater of champions" baseball team handed their arch-rivals, the Titans of Illinois Wesleyan University, their first conference loss of the season at Bradley field Tuesday afternoon as Swen Wallin came through for the Braves with a 3 to 2 victory, allowing but six hits.

Playing before the largest crowd to witness a home tilt of the Braves thus far this season, Bradley collected eight hits off the combined efforts of Titan twirlers Bill Massarand and Harry Grubb. Included in the eight hits were two doubles by Bill Whiteside, Bradley's slugging left fielder, and a triple by Elliot "Bus" Ormsbee, Bradley catcher.

Bradley opened the scoring in the first inning as Whiteside's first double of the game drove in Larry Leonard from second base. Leonard had been issued a walk by pitcher Bill Massarand, who worked the first four innings for Wesleyan. With two outs against the Braves, Leonard stole second on the first pitch before Whiteside's long clout.

Keith Kennett started the second frame for Bradley with a walk. He advanced to second as Bus Ormsbee also drew a pass. Wallin then lashed a sharp single to left field, scoring Kennett for Bradley's second marker.

Wesleyan entered the scoring column in the fifth inning as Quigley opened with a single between first and second. A sacrifice play sent him to second, from which he took third on a pass ball. Markoski held Quigley on third as he threw out Woehr, the next batter. Harry Grubb then sent Quigley scampering home with a line drive over the box.

The Titans gained their second marker in the seventh due to fine hits by Quigley and Woehr. In the meantime, Bradley garnered what proved to be the winning run. Harold Klesath opened Bradley's half of the sixth with a single. The next two batters, Butkovich and Kennett, popped out. Ormsbee then pulled out his snappy triple into center field scoring Klesath.

Swen Wallin went the route for Bradley allowing but six well-distributed hits.

Golf Team Faces Biggest Task This Week-End

Bradley's golf team will face its biggest test of the year tomorrow afternoon and Saturday morning when the Techsters go to work on the annual conference championship at the Mount Hawley country club course.

Against the Braves will be the defending champions of Illinois College, Illinois Wesleyan, Millikin, Knox, Monmouth and Augustana, making one of the most representative fields ever to compete in the affair.

The first round of 18 holes will begin tomorrow afternoon, starting at 1:30 while the final 18 hole test is scheduled to begin Saturday morning at 8:30.

This week saw Francis Minor and Dave Jensen play off for the fourth position with the Braves, Minor winning with his fine 78. Therefore the Tech team will have Art Szold, Bob Armstrong, Horace Worland and Minor as tournament contenders.

Spectators are invited to attend the torunament this week and see the finest golfers in the conference.

Tech Tennis Squad Play Last Match

The last match of the tennis season was held at Western State Teachers College, Macomb, last Monday with the Leathernecks emerging victorious, 5-1. This was the second match of the season. The other, held here, was rained out before it was finished; however, Bradley had led the match at the time it was called.

Bradley scored their points in singles when Ted Denton whipped Bill Gibson in straight sets, 6-3, 6-3. Dick Bachman, playing his last match for Bradley, forced his opponent to three sets before conceding defeat. The score was 2-6, 6-4, 2-6. Jack Pfeiffer lost in straight sets to Troy Van Winkle, 6-2, 6-3. In the other match Mel Van Norman won one game in the first set, but was blanked in the final.

In doubles Denton and Bachman dropped to Gibson and Robinson, 4-6, 7-5, 2-6. Pfeiffer and Van Norman were defeated in straight sets 6-4, 6-4.

Bradley loses only one man by graduation and looks forward to a better season next year.

Bradley Hosts League Teams In Track Meet

For the first time in a decade, Bradley Tech will play host to the Illinois college conference track and field championships Saturday morning and afternoon. Also on the program are the conference golf and tennis championships. The golfers will battle on the Mt. Hawley course and the tennis teams will compete on the Bradley courts.

The track meet will bring more than 150 cinder and field artists to Bradley for the annual event. A large ticket drive has been under way for the past week and the outlook is for a large crowd on Saturday.

Bradley is definitely not favored to win the meet, but yet cannot be counted out of the running entirely. North Central, with a large squad, will defend its championship won last year and is a strong favorite to repeat in this year's competition. North Central is a strong contender in the 880-yard run and in the mile run in which their ace middle distance man, Lyle Schendel, has recorded times of 4:25.3 and 1:59.1. They are also strong in the pole vault where Bob White has jumped 13 feet, and in the 440-yard run, where Bob Arlen goes the distance in 51.2.

Knox college has a good sprinter in Dan Roberts who runs the 100-yard dash in slightly under 10 seconds and takes only 22.5 seconds in the 220-yard sprint. Another Knox athlete, Clifford Heller, plans to give Bradley's Ray Ramsey a real battle in the high hurdles.

Styles change in everything including gym suits. The women's athletic department is contemplating a change in style and color for the following year.

Dr. Frye To Help With Research For Education

Dr. Ellis K. Frye has been selected to represent Bradley in a cooperative study of educational practices being carried on by twenty-eight colleges of the United States.

The purpose of this two-year program of experimentation and research is to determine what are the educational objectives in the training of secondary school teachers and what are the procedures best adapted to realizing these objectives.

Results of this comprehensive program will profoundly affect college educational procedures throughout the country.

measurements. The first two months there was no improvement, but after that he began to get results. By the end of a year he had met all the measurements on the physical culture standard.

Magazine Hears Of Success

The publishers of the "Arena and Strength," a physical culture magazine, heard of his success, and in the February issue of 1934 devoted a feature article to his achievements. A number of photographs were used, showing him before and after the period of "weight lifting."

His perfect physique and his deep booming voice are great aids to him as a public speaker and minister. And his interest in athletics has made him popular among the young people of his church.

Increases Church Attendance

He first came to Hope Mission as a student pastor while at Moody and became the regular pastor soon after he graduated in 1938. During the three years he has been pastor, the membership of the church has tripled and the Sunday school has expanded also. In fact, on Sundays the parsonage is used for overflow classes.

He hopes to build a larger church in the future, however, when the mortgage on the old building has been paid. Mortgage lifting is harder than weight lifting, he says, but most of the old debt has been paid off since he has been pastor at Hope Mission.

Joe will graduate next year with a bachelor of arts degree, majoring in history and social sciences; he likes ping pong; he is married to his school sweetheart; he has dark wavy hair; and he extends a cordial invitation to all Bradley students to visit the Hope Mission at 310 Sanger street.

Sonnet To The Other Guy

Oh, would that she were but to smile at me,
Or lightly passing, stop to pass the while,
I would forever look upon that smile
To hold within recess of memory,
To bring it forth, but just in reverie.
Have you been favored with her charming smile?
Or do you with your wit my brain beguile
To take advantage of naivity?
If you are he to whom she gives her lips
And with such gentle words does love assure,
If you are he that Fate would choose to win,
And he that of those nectared kisses sips,
The only words that I might say are, "You're
A better man than I am, Hunka-tin."

Lutherans Form New Organization

Another organization formally took its place among campus groups, with the unanimous vote of Bradley Lutheran students. The Luther club, to be under the faculty supervision of Dr. P. T. Hogenson, is named after Dr. Martin Luther, great leader of the Re-Reformation.

Formation of the Luther club is a result of local interest in the widespread growth of chapters of the Lutheran Student association and the Delta Gammas, national Missouri Synod Lutheran fraternity. In an initial meeting Wednesday night, May 15, at Zion Lutheran church, Frances Osterbur was elected president; Fred Martens, vice president; Phyllis Egert, secretary and Ray Fritch, treasurer.

A constitution compiled by Rev. Lewis Eichhoff and Rev. K. B. Neumann, pastors in Lutheran churches in Peoria, was adopted, and provides for the affiliation and cooperation with both of the national Lutheran student organizations. Charter members drew up plans for tentative study groups and social activities, and committees were appointed.

Every Lutheran student enrolled at Bradley is to be a member of the Luther club. Activities of the club will be open to any student desiring to attend the combined educational and recreational meetings, starting with the new school term next September.

Chicago Alumni Have Dinner Meeting

The Chicago Bradley alumni club, largest Bradley alumni group in the country, met last Monday evening, May 18, at the United Fruit company on Michigan avenue.

The theme of the meeting was "A Cruise to the Caribbean."

Margaret Wilton, president of the group, estimates the attendance at 125.

The dinner is the first of two which the United Fruit company is giving for the club.

What's All This Worth?

Bryn Mawr, Pa. — (ACP) —In cold cash, what is a college education worth to a girl? Not as much as you'd think.

In fact, unless she goes on and gets a doctor of philosophy degree, the "investment of time and money as represented by earnings does not seem to be justified," it was concluded by the American Association of University Women in a recent survey.

"Fifty-five per cent of the women who have doctorates had attained earnings of $3,000 per year," said Dr. Susan Kingsbury, professor emeritus of social economy at Bryn Mawr college, who conducted the poll.

Thirty-three per cent of the Ph.D.'s earned between $3,000 and $4,000, and 22 per cent more than $4,000. Only 17 per cent of those with master's degrees had reached $3,000. Only 8 per cent of women with bachelor's degrees alone had reached that level.
